

Emergency rides for your employees. A no-cost benefit for them, and you.

The CTrides Emergency Ride Home (ERH) Program

Employers know that employees who commute to work using transit, carpools, or other green commutes are more productive and healthier. That's why employers across the state offer CTrides' free Emergency Ride Home program—to eliminate one barrier to driving less. This program guarantees a way home in the event of an emergency when your employees' qualified* green commutes (e.g. train, bus, carpool, etc.) are unavailable.

It's easy to join and offers a host of benefits:

- Simple for employers – CTrides handles administration and trip reimbursement.
- Program flexibility – Trips can be taken to a home, a park and ride lot, or to a child's school, among others. Eligible modes from work include on-demand ride services (Uber or Lyft), taxi, or a ride with a coworker.
- Generous allowances – Four reimbursements per year with a maximum of $200 allowance per trip.
- Easy online reimbursement process

To get started:

- 1 Meet with your Outreach and Engagement Specialist
- 2 Review program guidelines and sign up
- 3 Designate a company representative
- 4 Promote the program to your employees

By providing your employees with the CTrides ERH program, you'll join other employers around the state committed to reducing traffic congestion and harmful emissions from cars that contribute to climate change.
